HOUSTON – Rebuilding Together Houston (RT-H) is pleased to announce that Reliant Energy President Jason Few has been elected to the Rebuilding Together Houston Board of Directors.

“The inspiration, leadership and commitment of our board members significantly enhance our ability to provide critical services for homeowners in need,” said Rebuilding Together - Houston Executive Director, Bob Conklin. “Jason exemplifies these qualities and has shown tremendous passion and enthusiasm for giving back to the community. We look forward to working with him.”

“The positive impact RT - H has had in Houston is significant,” said Few. “I am honored to serve on the board of such an outstanding organization. The partnership between RT-H and Reliant is one of the most important ways we connect to the communities we serve. Along with my colleagues at Reliant Energy, I look forward to continuing to help improve the quality of life for deserving Houston families.”

In its 20 year history RT-H has helped restore more than 16,000 homes in low-income communities in Houston.

In addition to financial support for RT – H programs, Reliant employee volunteers help make repairs during RT-H's annual spring and fall work efforts. Since 2002, those efforts have helped repair more than 50 homes in low-income Houston areas. Working together, RT - H and Reliant employees have made energy-efficiency upgrades to more than 1,200 homes in low-income Houston neighborhoods through the Reliant Energy Acres Homes and PowerHouse programs, which launched March 2006.

The RT-H Board of Directors is comprised of twenty talented individuals whose diverse professional backgrounds include, among others, banking and investment. Some board members come from local churches and major oil companies. Together, these men and women work closely with the RT – H staff to continually expand the reach and scope of the organization.
