

NRG Energy Plans to Offer Convertible Perpetual Preferred Stock

December 13, 2004

PRINCETON, N.J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Dec. 13, 2004--NRG Energy, Inc. (NYSE:NRG) announced today that it plans to issue approximately $400 million of convertible perpetual preferred stock through an offering to qualified institutional buyers pursuant to a private placement exemption under the Securities Act of 1933.

The convertible perpetual preferred stock issuance is anticipated to be priced after market close on December 14, 2004. This preferred stock will be convertible into NRG common stock under certain conditions at a premium to NRG's closing stock price on December 14, 2004. The preferred stock will be callable after five years.

The purpose of the preferred stock issuance is two-fold: (1) to provide funds for the redemption of a portion of NRG's outstanding 8% Second Priority Notes due 2013; and (2) to enable NRG to use existing cash balances to repurchase 13 million shares of common stock held by investment partnerships managed by MatlinPatterson Global Advisors, LLC.

The issuance of the preferred stock will be subject to market conditions and other conditions and there can be no assurance that the issuance will be consummated. The share repurchase and the redemption of the notes are also subject to conditions and there can be no assurance that they will be consummated.

The convertible perpetual preferred stock and the underlying common stock issuable upon conversion have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and may not be offered or sold in the United States absent registration or an applicable exemption from registration requirements. This news release does not constitute an offer to sell, or solicitation of an offer to buy, any security and shall not constitute an offer, solicitation or sale in any jurisdiction in which such offering would be unlawful.
