Back in October 2016, NRG was the first Philadelphia company to team up with Wentz on an endorsement deal.

"I'm proud to continue representing NRG," Wentz said. "From charitable giving to a wide range of products and services, NRG's commitment to its customers and the community is demonstrated in every aspect of the company's work."

NRG has a number of programs that allow its employees and customers to give back to their communities. These programs include the company's crowd-sourced donation initiative NRG Gives and Choose to Give, the electricity program that allows NRG customers to support local nonprofits by simply paying their energy bill.

"We're thrilled to have Carson return as an NRG ambassador for another season," said NRG general manager and vice president Mike Starck. "He has made the Philly area his home, and we look forward to working with him across the region."

NRG's values and products.

NRG is the official energy provider of the Philadelphia Eagles so this endorsement deal builds on NRG's already strong partnership with the franchise. NRG designed, installed and operates the key renewable energy systems at Lincoln Financial Field, including solar arrays featuring more than 11,000 solar panels and 14 micro-wind turbines ringing the stadium.
